

OLIVIER'S RESTAURANT

Wine lists normally fall into two styles.

The first attempts to circumnavigate the globe, listing wines from every producing country, however obscure, to a point where you are stunned into submission by its sheer volume and choose the first wine you recognise.

The second style of wine list requires no thought on our part as we ask a wine supplier to produce a list of his most popular selling wines. This option takes no account of the diversity of guests, the menu style or indeed the variety of wines available.

The list before you is not revolutionary, merely an honest and fairly priced offering of good quality wines that represent and complement Olivier's cooking.

We have attempted to be objective and considerate in our selection in the hope that they will entice you to try something different.

You may detect a bias towards a particular 'grape variety' in a particular region, however, that's where the similarity stops as each are truly individual and as such, demand serious inclusion.

We would make no apology for being particularly self indulgent with the inclusion of four seriously individual wines from the Provence and the Rhône.

Also included a selection of dessert wines and a couple of Port ideas for consideration and for those of you who may be driving, we have wines by the glass and an 'all you need to know' explanation to units of alcohol.

We will leave you with this thought:

Wine can raise passions and evoke linguistic prose of pompous proportions. There is nothing mystical about wine. As a child your taste buds have developed from the sweetness tasted on the tip of your tongue becoming desensitised through use to a mature savoury palate. Knowledge comes from experience, so the simple solution is to indulge often; you will be surprised how much you really know.

Thank you for dining with us, we hope you enjoy our offering.
Any tips, suggestions or inclusions you would like to see would be welcomed.

In addition to offering a number of wines by the glass, We have included the units of alcohol you are likely to consume when purchasing a particular wine.

The unit of alcohol referred to here is the one defined in the UK as being 10ml of pure alcohol.

For example a 1 litre bottle of wine with an Alcohol By Volume (ABV) of 12% would contain 12 units ($1000\text{ml} \times 12\% \div 10\text{ml}$ of pure alcohol).

If the bottle size were 75cl it would hold 9 units

($750\text{ml} \times 12\% \div 10\text{ml}$ of pure alcohol).

A 175ml glass of wine would be 2.1 units of pure alcohol per glass

($175\text{ml} \times 12\% \div 10\text{ml}$)

and a 125ml glass of wine would be 1.5 units of pure alcohol per glass

($125\text{ml} \times 12\% \div 10\text{ml}$).

On a wine list, the following wines may not at first catch your eye, so we have singled them out for reflection and serious consideration.

60	Domaine de Trévallon, Eloi Dürrbach, 2005 Lying on the edge of Les Alpilles, in countryside between Aix and Arles, it is here that the dynamic wine maker Eloi Dürrbach literally blasted the craggy limestone rock in order to plant his vines. Tough beginnings combined with his passion have resulted in a truly individual wine. Almost a hybrid of fine Claret (Cabernet Sauvignon) and Northern Rhône (Syrah) with its own distinctive Provençal twist. This is a wine of great complexity and structure with diverse flavours of blackcurrant, blackberries, spices and herbs. (13% ABV, 9.75 units)	France			£69.95
61	Brézème Eugene de Maonicault, JM Lombard, 2007 To quote those who know more than I: "Brézème is a viticultural oddity, of great merit, that revels in its own micro-appellation status as Brézème-Côtes du Rhône. Although technically in Southern Rhône, being south of Valence the inspiration comes from the 'noble' grapes of the north". Jean-Marie Lombard is a great admirer of Cornas, hence the Syrah to produce a fairly robust, traditional Rhône with plenty of dense fruit and ample tannins. This particular wine is from the oldest vines on the estate; it is powerfully concentrated and lends itself to hearty rustic dishes. (13% ABV, 9.75 units)	France			£55.00
62	Cornas, Auguste & Pierre Clape, 2002 Produced by a true master of his craft, Auguste Clape, ably assisted by his son, Pierre, this impeccable wine is truly massive. Inky-purple in colour with supple tannin, intense fruit, great finesse and a smoky spicy complexity; this is not a wine to hurry, requiring medium to long term bottle age. (13% ABV, 9.75 units)	France			£65.00
63	Collines Rhodaniennes, Syrah, George Vernay, 2009 An impressive Syrah wine which borders Côte Rôtie, but not within the appellation hence terrific value (12.5% ABV, 9.38 units)	France			£31.50

71	Brown Brothers Orange Muscat and Flora, Victoria, 2009 A really rich exotic fruit salad combination of flavours, yet a clean almost dry finish. (37.5cl bottle, 9.5% ABV, 3.56 units)	Australia	£6.55	£19.95
72	Elysium, Black Muscat, Andrew Quady, 2009 Lovely ripe blackberry and bilberry fruit with a vibrant and fresh clean palate. (37.5cl bottle, 15% ABV, 5.63 units)	CA, USA	£7.35	£21.95
75	Chevalier du Pastel, Sauternes, NV An elegant sweet wine, from the Sauternes region. A perfect match for foie gras, galantines, white meats and some cheeses. (37.5cl bottle, 13.5% ABV, 5.06 units)	France	£7.65	£22.95

80	Smith Woodhouse 2000 Splendidly smooth on the palette, well blanced, delicate fruit flowers, great length and an intense finish. Lovely ruby colour with excellent bottle age characteristics. (20% ABV, 15 units)	Portugal	£7.95		£98.00
81	Fonseca, 1985 Not quite as massive as Taylor's, however; this is very much in the same deep coloured style, with a rich, ripe flavour and a sensual chocolatey - raisin complexity. It's as close to caressing velvet in a liquid form! (20.5% ABV, 15.38 units)	Portugal	£8.60		£100
